You need to ensure that :

- You have a maximum of four firearms, not more than one of the same calibre :
- The Frame, barrel or action are marked with the same serial number.
- Check with your airline to the number of firearms they allow per passenger as many airlines are now specifying a maximum of two/three firearms.
- You may only bring ammunition applicable to the firearms that you will be bringing to South Africa.
- If you wish to bring a Semi-automatic shotgun for bird shooting, or a custom made handgun the application should arrive 35 days prior to your arrival at Hunters Support.
- For Semi-automatic shotguns and handguns, you must supply a letter of motivation stating the reason for wanting to bring that specific firearm to hunt in South Africa. It must be an original request...with a good reason otherwise consideration of your application will not be granted.
- In many cases if the handgun is custom made and it is not on the Central Firearms computer system, you will be requested to obtain from the manufacturer a letter stating that the firearm is used solely for hunting purposes. Pictures of the firearm can be requested by Central Firearms. In this instance consideration of your application can take longer then the specified period. So please submit your applications timeously.
- For handguns :
- The outfitter must supply a letter confirming the handgun will be used for hunting purposes only.
- If required by Central Firearms the outfitter must supply a letter of confirmation from the province where you are hunting that Nature Conservation has objection to you hunting with a handgun.
- The outfitter is also required to inform you the client in a letter of invitation that you must be aware of the South African Firearm Regulations and that you adhere to the safe storage, transportation, handling and use of the firearms as laid down in the regulations, namely the Firearms Control Act 2000 (Act 60 of 2000)
- The proof of ownership and the passport copies must be notarised as true copies of the original.
- The Firearms Control Act has been implemented in its entirety from January 2005, applications need to be completed correctly and submitted timeously to avoid any unforeseen mishaps or delays.

Intransit permits: are required to be obtained by an passenger spending the night in South Africa while intransit to a third country. The same pre-requisites apply as to obtain the normal Import permit. A fee is no longer payable as from the 28th November 2005.
